ABSTRACT

Compiled as a reference tool to familiarize students, faculty, and community patrons with the contributions made by Chicano writers to the literary world, the bibliography is intended as a guide to Chicano literature holdings in the University of Texas at El Paso Library. The 246 entries are organized into general works; fiction--novels, short stories, and folklore; drama--collections and selected plays; poetry--collections and selected poems; biographies; book reviews; history and criticism; and bibliographies. Two special sections are included: "The Chicano in American Literature" which cites those works about Chicanos, and "Children's Literature" which provides access to the few items published in this area. The materials have all been published between 1896 and 1977, with the majority being published between 1968 and 1977. All entries are as bibliographically complete as possible. The library call number is provided to assist users in locating the materials at the library. (Author/NQ)

FOREWORD

This selective bibliography on Chicano literature was compiled as a reference tool to familiarize students, faculty, and community patrons with the contributions made by Chicano writers to the literary world. It is also intended as a guide to Chicano literature holdings in The University of Texas at El Paso Library. Within the past ten years Chicano literature has grown rapidly, and it seems desirable to provide a bibliography which will assist both students and researchers in their work.

Upon examining the Table of Contents the user will note that the bibliography has been organized into the different genres of literature. Two special sections are included: "The Chicano in American Literature" dealing with those works about Chicanos, and "Children's Literature," which provides access to the few items published in this area.

All entries are as bibliographically complete as possible. The U.T. El Paso Library call number is provided to assist users in locating material here.

The compilers will welcome your comments on how this work may be improved since the goal is to update and supplement the information.

The compilers would like to extend their gratitude to the library administration for their assistance, to Dr. Fernando Garcia of this institution's Modern Languages Department for his professional advice, and to the staff of the Chicano Services Section in The U.T. El Paso Library for their work. Also, a very special thanks to Ida Gonzalez who did most of the work.
